Material for Export Control

REF : Meeting with [REDACTED]

1. You may recall that [REDACTED] in briefing personnel of ORR as to the results of the COCOM meetings, was of the opinion that we would be able to serve a most useful purpose in the future by keeping our eye out for newly developed material or devices which, because of their advanced technology or usefulness, we might want to have included on the Export Control List.

2. In the New York Times of Sunday, September 26, I noted a write-up about a new navigation system presently being manufactured by the American Bosch Arma Corporation. I consider this as being advanced technology and of being of considerable use and importance in the production of guided missiles and other munitions equipment. According to the write-up, the principal customer in this item is our military services, but there is also an indication that this corporation might be on the lookout for additional customers.

3. I would recommend that you read this article and then suggest that the gyroscope be considered for complete embargo.
